TWO PROGRESSIVE IDEAS INSTITUTED

Students Appointed To Study Curriculum

Committee of Seven to Make Plans For Work Of Permanent Group

PLAN IS SUCCESSFUL IN OTHER COLLEGES

Will Provide A Medium For Constructive Criticism of Courses

The appointment of a student committee to make a special study of the curriculum from the student's point of view, was announced last Tuesday by President Paul D. Moody. Seven representative upperclassmen, who had been nominated by the Student Council, compose the group.

The action marks a progressive step in a general effort to secure better understanding between faculty and students and also to provide a medium for constructive criticism. It is an experiment which has been tried with marked success at Dartmouth and Bowdoin and is rapidly being tried at other colleges.

This committee will cooperate with the Curriculum Committee of the College and the Administration in receiving and forwarding suggestions concerning changes in curriculum regarding improvements and additions.

The appointment of the present committee is provisional. A part of the work of this group is to recommend the best machinery for the setting up such a committee as a permanent adjunct of the College. It will concern itself with such matters as size, method of selection and function. The committee consists of four seniors, Alfred R. Brosowsky, William B. Grow, Dana S. Hawthorne and W. Ranson Rice; and three juniors, Howard W. Cutler, Mervin W. McCutcheon and A. St. John Whiting. The formation of a constitution is the first duty to which it is turning its attention.

The significance of such action is commented on by the Boston Transcrip in an editorial which starts as follows:

"All our colleges now seem to be asking their students to assume, for a time, the task of teaching their teachers. Dartmouth led the way in this matter, soliciting from the undergraduates a very complete report of their views of higher education as supplied them at Hanover, what they think is good about it and what they think is wrong. Bowdoin and Middlebury have likewise sought counsel of their seniors and sophomores, their juniors and freshmen."

SONGSTERS LEAVE FOR THREE DAYS

Three Concerts To Be Given On Trip Which Starts Today; Home Contest April 23

The Men's Glee Club left this morning for its second trip of the season. Tonight the club will sing at Burr and Burton Seminary, Manchester, Vt., and tomorrow evening at Arlington, Vt., where Mrs. George Russell, graduate of Middlebury, has arranged for the concert. Friday evening the club will appear under the auspices of the Women's Club at Salem, N. Y. Return to Middlebury will be made Saturday.

It is planned to have the home concent of the Glee Club April twenty-third in the Congregational Church. This concert will give the student body as well as the townspeople an opportunity of hearing the organization which did such excellent work in the New England Inter-Collegiate Contest at Boston.

SPRING FOOTBALL TO START MONDAY

Expect Record Number For Two Weeks of Intensive Practise

Spring football training will start next Monday when it is expected that fifty men will report for the first practise session. Due to the fact that Coach Klevenow will be on the baseball training trip, the work for the first week will be in charge of Coach Riegelman who will be assisted by "Hank" Potter, captain of the 1925 eleven, Bill McLaughlin, and Al Brosowsky. A well planned program has been worked out for the first week by Coach Klevenow and he will take charge of the gridiron candidates during the second week, as the spring session of training will last but two weeks. The workouts will be held on the Freshman Field which is in fair shape for football.

Due to the fact that an almost new eleven will have to be developed next fall Coach Klevenow is looking for a record number of candidates to report next week, and it is expected that there will be a large turnout from the freshman class, as much likely looking varsity material was apparent in the frosh team last fall.

Camp Maqua was the subject at Y. W. C. A. meeting last night.

BASEBALL TEAM TO HAVE PRACTISE IN SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

To Leave Sunday For Three Days' Work Before First Game

The Middlebury baseball team will leave for Springfield Sunday noon for an intensive three-day training period previous to the first game, which will be played with Springfield College at Pratt Field on Thursday. Porter Field is in such a deplorable state that it has not been possible to hold any practise sessions there as yet, and judging from present indications there is little likelihood that it can be utilized until some time after the team returns from their first trip a week from Sunday. Each spring the lack of a proper training field presents a problem to the baseball team but the problem has been more acute and noticeable this year than at any other time.

Through the courtesy of Springfield College and the City of Springfield it has been made possible for Middlebury to have the use of any one of a number of excellent diamonds in that city for a training session. Fifteen men will make the trip on Sunday and long workouts will be held twice each day before the first game.

The candidates have held workouts every day since their return from vacation and with the exception of one day, they have been out doors. However the men have been forced to use an improvised diamond, that is a diamond in the rough in every sense of the word, and this has greatly slowed up their progress. The squad was cut to 23 following the first workout after vacation and the final cut will be made on Saturday to 20 men and these will be carried throughout the season.

Coach Klevenow faces the problem of developing an almost entirely new nine as there are but few veterans of any experience left this spring. However there is a keen fight for every berth on the team and Klevenow is confident of a strong aggregation due to the fight that every man is showing. The infield will have to be made over as Hasseltine is the only veteran left, but there are a number of freshmen showing varsity stuff around the sacks.

The pitching problem is still a source of considerable worry and this has been increased since the announcement of the ineligibility of Towne, who was relied upon to bear the brunt of the

Choose Committees For Commencement Week

Seniors Discuss Business Pertaining To Graduation; Report Shows 1926 Kaleidoscope Financial Success

Members of the Commencement Week committees were announced by Joseph C. Novotny, chairman, at last Friday's meeting of the senior class. Matters relative to Commencement, especially in regard to announcements, were discussed. The sub-committees are as follows:

Senior Ball committee: William H. Purdy, chairman; Lester Stewart, James McLeod, J. Audrey Clark, Lester Schaefer, Juanita Pritchard, Dorothee Bellerose, Helen White and Ada Winchester.

Announcement committee: John Morris, chairman; Frank Towne and Margaret Doty.

Class Day committee: Dana Hawthorne, chairman; James Jackson.

Treasurer; Edward Twichell.

A financial report of the 1926 Kaleidoscope was read and accepted. After paying all outstanding bills the annual publication has a balance of about forty four dollars but owes the class fifty dollars for an advance made from the treasury two years ago in order that it might get started. Therefore there is a net deficit of six dollars which may be wiped out if collections can be made from one or two who still owe for their books. The 1926 Kaleidoscope board is the first one in several years to publish a successful book and make it a financial success.

Unlimited Cuts For Those on Dean's List

Seniors and Juniors Who Have High Ranks Will Be Eligible

ALL OTHERS TO HAVE CUTS AS AT PRESENT

Faculty Approves Details of Plan; Goes Into Effect Next Fall

Almost unlimited freedom in taking cuts will be given to high ranking juniors and seniors in the future, as a result of a plan which was approved by the faculty last Thursday and which will go into effect next September.

In both Men's and Women's College there will be a Dean's List, for which applications will be received from seniors and juniors ranking in the upper twenty per cent. of their class and having an average for the past semester of over 85 per cent. with no grades under 80 per cent. Those receiving the approval of the Dean will be given complete freedom in cutting classes, with certain reasonable restrictions. The privilege will not apply to daily or Sunday chapel nor to classes immediately before and after vacations. All other students in the college will be governed by the cut system which is now in effect, that of having three cuts a semester for a three-hour course.

Plan Recognizes Scholarship

The new plan establishes for the first time at Middlebury a cut system which recognizes scholarship. The plan embodies many of the best features of various systems now in operation at other New England colleges and has been evolved as a result of a long study by Associate Dean Burt A. Hazeltine of conditions here and cut systems of other colleges.

Dean Hazeltine has compiled an interesting table of figures to show how the system would have worked out in the past two or three years at Middlebury. The 20 per cent clause would allow not more than 22 men and 22 women to be eligible to be on the Deans' Lists during the present semester. But in the Men's College there were only fourteen, nine seniors and five juniors, who last semester attained an average of 85 with no grades under 80. Were the new plan in operation now, it is probable that all fourteen would be on the Dean's List. In the Women's College, 35 would have sufficiently high ranks to be eligible so the Dean would pick from this number, not more than 22 for the unlimited cut privilege It is found that in most cases in the past five semesters, a larger number than twenty per cent. would have had high enough ranks to be eligible to the

"QUALITY STREET" TO BE SENIOR PLAY

J. M. Barrie's Play To Be Produced Two Nights At Commencement Time; Cast Is Announced

"Quality Street" by James M. Barrie has been chosen as the Commencement Play and the cast for it has been chosen, it was announced yesterday by Professor Frank W. Cady. It is probable that it will be produced on the evenings of June 11 and 12 in the Playhouse.

The cast is picked largely from the seniors in the Play Production course with a few juniors taking minor parts. Eleanor Frost takes the leading woman's part, that of Phoebe Throssel, while J. Audrey Clark plays the leading men's role, that of Valentine Brown. Both have been prominent in dramatics as well as in other activities in the past four years.

FOUR MEETS LISTED FOR BLUE RUNNERS

Manager Ross Announces Schedule; Season Opens May 1st Here

The Middlebury track schedule as announced this week by Manager A. A. Ross, '26, contains four meets, all of which will occur in May, and only one of which will be at home. The Blue and White track men will open the season here on May 1 when they meet the Massachusetts Agricultural College team. M. A. C. is a newcomer on the Middlebury schedule but basketball and baseball relations have been opened with the Agrarians from the Bay State this year. Two weeks later the team will go to Schenectady to compete with Union, another new opponent for the Blue and White. This means that the team will be away from Middlebury during Junior Week.

The following week the annual meet will be held with Hamilton at Clinton and this will be one of the important contests of the season as the two teams have usually been very evenly matched. The season will come to a close on May 29 when Middlebury competes with Norwich and the University of Vermont in the annual state meet.

Manager Ross is still dickering for a meet to be held on May 8th but as yet has been unsuccessful in signing up a team within a reasonable distance from Middlebury.

The schedule is as follows:

May 1 M. A. C. at Middlebury.
May 15 Union at Schenectady.
May 22 Hamilton at Clinton, N. Y.
May 29 State Championship meet at Burlington.

"To Be Intelligent Must Be A Moral Obligation"---Angell

"The commonest mistake made by Babbitt is to disregard the self-evident fact," was the assertion made by Norman Angell, noted English author, in his speech in the Mead Memorial Chapel last night on the topic, "Is Much Wrong With Main Street?"

Mr. Angell, who spoke before an audience of between three and four hundred, went on to show by very striking examples that it is the trivial thing which is entertaining and that citizens will not pay attention to vital things unless driven to them. The use of a fair amount of common intelligence is the thing which is needed, he maintained, pointing out that the most catastrophic mistakes could have been avoided by five minutes of intelligent thought.

Touching on the problem of democracy he said, "Unless we can face the shortcomings of civilization more successfully, democracy will not be successful. Intelligence must be made subject to social instincts. One of the first steps in improving matters must be to create the idea that the obligation to use the second thought must be a moral obligation. It must be a moral obligation to be intelligent. It should be as much 'the thing to do' to listen to reason in important things as it is 'the thing to do' to take off one's hat in an elevator."

In closing he pointed out that "we must look with care even behind shining garments, for Satan may be there instead of God. Mankind is not threatened by things which are wholly evil but by those which have some semblance of good." Mr. Angell summed up his speech well in his last sentence, saying "A world of happiness is not unattainable; the obstacle lies in the hearts and minds of men and the cure lies in human thought."

After his speech, Mr. Angell answered questions from the floor, giving keen answers with a remarkable readiness. When asked whether he believed in a restriction of the suffrage, he said "Only to the extent of taking out of Babbitt's hands the things he cannot do. Such tasks should be delegated to some responsible person and then it should be seen that he does them in the right way." Throughout his talk, Mr. Angell's points were made clear by his striking examples.

GULLIBLE GREEKS

For several months we have wanted to write an editorial on fraternities, telling of their evils and what should be done to remedy them. Yet every time a definite attempt has been made to gather the evidence and put it down in black and white we have seemed to be at a loss to know just what to say. That the fraternities at Middlebury, especially in their relations with one another, are not all they should be, is an admitted fact. But it is difficult to make a definite statement as to the existing troubles and their remedies. A comparison with other colleges shows that Middlebury is perhaps better off than the average in this respect. The fact that we have a commons and dormitories keeps the fraternities from being exclusive unto themselves as they are in some colleges. Furthermore the college is fortunate in having a strong non-fraternity group, a thing which is desirable because of the fact that it lessens the emphasis on fraternities.

The most apparent evil is interfraternity politics. But there is nothing more natural than politics and any effort to suppress it would be futile. It would be merely trying to change a phase of human nature and we know that cannot be done by human hands. The only thing to do is to take elections out of the range of interfraternity politics when the evil becomes too offensive. This has recently been done in the case of elections for assistant managers.

An evil which is more serious in the long run is that fraternities serve as a means of classification for the men of Middlebury. If a man is a Gamma (our names are fictitious) every one knows, or thinks he knows, just what the man is. The college regards him as a second-rater. If he is a Zeta everyone ranks him as rather of a hypocrite and a high-stepper. If he is a Delta, he is known as a nice boy but not to be considered too seriously. Although in the majority of cases these classifications are unjust, there are times when a man unconsciously conforms to the mold. At pledging time a fraternity may take twelve men, each of whom is entirely different. Immediately the twelve are rated by the college according to what the rating of the fraternity has been in the past. They are that kind of fellows. By the time a man has labored under this sort of a stigma for four years it is likely that he will be "that kind of a fellow." At any rate it is a safe bet to say that at least half of them will actually be pretty much alike by the time they graduate and the other half won't differ very greatly. But this is another thing that probably cant't be remedied. No doubt it exists in every college in the country and in the outside world as well.

But in our opinion, the situation which is most to be deplored is the fact that fraternity brotherhood is considered too seriously. The members of a group worship their organization and swear to stand by one another through thick and thin. They are blind to the fact that there may be men in their midst who are not as deserving of friendship as certain men in another fraternity. In the eyes of the average fraternity man, the fact that another wears the same badge makes that other person all right in every particular. The time will probably never come when college students will realize that fraternity brotherhood does not necessarily make friendship and that friendship can exist just as well between men who do not wear the same badge.

Though a perfect remedy for this condition probably cannot be devised, it is possible that there is a means of improving the situation. If the fraternities would institute the Open House, setting aside nights when anyone and everyone is invited in, the opportunity derived therefrom to meet the men of the other fraternities more intimately might be of benefit. To get men into the habit of dropping into other houses is desirable and the Open House might help in this.

The evils of Middlebury fraternities are probably common to all fraternities in the country, and although bad enough here, they are less troublesome than in many places.

THANKS FOR THE BUGGY RIDE

Does not the college make a mistake when it fails to take advantage of very legitimate opportunities for desirable publicity? During the past two weeks Middlebury has made three very progressive moves. One is announced today and may not be of headline importance to the outside world. But the other two were very important and their value was neglected.

Just before vacation, it was announced that a plan would be put into operation next fall whereby seniors might pursue independent study. Though starting with a modest beginning this plan offers great possibilities to the true student and is in line with the most progressive principles in education. Last week the appointment of a student committee on the curriculum was announced. This too, is limited in its initial powers but offers a great possibility for service in the development of the college. It recognizes that the undergraduate body may have some worthwhile ideas in regard to the courses which are offered. Though other colleges have been doing this in the past few years, Middlebury may still be counted among the first to inaugurate this new and valuable idea.

Both of these actions mark very definite steps in the forward progress of Middlebury. As such, we welcome them heartily. But incidentally they could be of further benefit to the college. If known to the world at large they would help establish the name of the college in a favorable light among those who are interested in education. Though less spectacular, they could in the long run, help as much as another tie football game with a large university.

Yet only very small press notices concerning these events were sent to the city papers. Except in regard to the number of copies sent out, no greater importance was attached to them than the daily practise of the baseball team or to the appointment of a new instructor. Since the stories as they were written seemed of no particular importance, copy editors of the city newspapers either sidetracked them entirely or relegated them to inconspicuous places with small headlines.

The sad joke of it is that these events were real news—deserving a prominent place in the news columns to a far greater extent than ninety per cent of the propaganda that is sent out from the average college press bureau and which is printed with large headlines.

Middlebury missed chances to get some deserved and valuable publicity when these opportunities were not seized.

WEEK-END SOCIAL EVENTS

Sigma Kappa Holds Formal

Nu Chapter of Sigma Kappa held their annual formal dance at the Addison House Saturday evening. The hall was attractively decorated with multi-colored baloons and evergreens.

The representatives from other sororities were : Pi Beta Phi, Onnolee Chart; Delta Delta Delta, Katharine Burtis; Alpha Xi Delta, Helen White; Phi Mu, Hazel Hughes; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Margaret Sedgwick.

Chaperones for the dance were Professor and Mrs. Swett and Mr. and Mrs. Fritz.

Dancing was enjoyed from seven to eleven forty to music furnished by Gruggel's Serenaders.

Guests for the dance were: Woodhull Hall and Irwin Holden of U. V. M.; Donald Taylor of Worcester, Mass., and Louise Prevost of Burlington.

Beta Kappa Formal in Playhouse

The annual formal dance of Epsilon Chapter of Beta Kappa was held Saturday evening in the College Playhouse. Twenty-four couples danced to the music of the Dartmouth Syncopaters. The hall was attractively trimmed with green latticework and Japanese lanterns and colored lights were flashed down upon the dancing couples.

The chaperones were Miss Ellen Wiley, Professor J. S. Kingsley, Professor and Mrs. A. M. Brown. The representatives from the other fraternities were: Delta Kappa Epsilon, W. R. Rice; Sigma Phi Epsilon, E. V. Montandon; Alpha Sigma Phi, J. L. Finnegan; Kappa Delta Rho, L. Q. Stewart; Chi Psi, G. T. Mullen; Delta Sigma, C. P. Vorce; Neutrals, C. F. Ryan.

Among the guests from out of town were Melvin C. Livingston and J. Arnold Shaw of the class of 1925, Miss Lydia Blodgett of U. V. M., Burlington, Miss Georgia Parsons of Mt. Holyoke College, Miss Renwick and Miss Putnam '22 of Schaghticoke, N. Y.

An unusually enjoyable time was had last Saturday night when twenty-two of the Weybridge House girls entertained an equal number of men at their annual informal dance, held this year in the Phi Mu rooms. Novelty dances were introduced, the most interesting perhaps was the slipper dance which gave the informal its name of Cinderella's Dance. Ice cream, cake, candy and punch were served. Miss Helen S. Rosevear and Dean Burt A. Hazeltine chaperoned. Madolyn Derrick and Ross Maynard furnished the music.

THE WOMEN SPEAK

A spirit of discontent permeated the Women's College when the announcement of a purely masculine curriculum committee was made. That discontent has not yet subsided and indeed, it seems justified. Figures, if they speak significantly, will show that the numerical difference between the men's and women's enrollment is slight. Scholarship averages will prove the Women's College to be consistently ahead. And in the support of the College, in athletic, dramatic, musical and literary activities, the women certainly play an important part.

Are we, then, to consider this omission of women from the curriculum committee an insult to our common sense, our cooperative ability, our capacity for constructive criticism? We do care to be treated in this way. We would like at least an opportunity to prove that our interest does lie in curriculum problems, that we are eager to have our part in the solution of them.

A news item elsewhere in the Campus announces that the curriculum committee is at present drawing up its constitution. Why should we, the women of the college, have to wait until the boundaries are set before our admission to the committee is even considered? Is there any convincing reason to be offered? As yet we have found none. We duly respect the convictions of the faculty, to be sure; but it seems impossible to sit quietly behind the scenes when our sense of justice fails to see why women as well as men should not be active on this curriculum committee. COMMUNICATION

Editor of Saxonian Tells of Intercollegiate Literary Magazine Conference; Middlebury Represented

To the Editor of The Campus:

At the recent conference of Intercollegiate Literary magazines at Harvard, Middlebury claimed for the first time her right of representation and rubbed mental shoulders with Columbia, Dartmouth, Smith and other colleges represented. In spite of the fact that this was our first appearance, the Saxonian is credited with two entries in an anthology to be published sometime during the late spring or early summer. The book was compiled by the delegates and contains what was judged to be the best work published by the colleges during the year 1925.

Aside from this step into the Light of acknowledgement, some sparks were gathered from the general contact of ideas. We brought back a great deal of inspiration and some practical suggestions, among which are a change in the size and cover design of the magazine. We are grateful for those who helped by the submission of cover designs but regret that none of them exactly meet the need. We are, however, glad to acknowledge our indebtedness to Harriet Freeborn '29 for the frontispiece.

I hope that Middlebury will press the advantage already gained in literary competition and not neglect the head for the hands. She should claim a still larger space next year in what is to become, I believe, an annual anthology. She can only claim the place, however, that should be justly hers, through the co-operation of the student body.

FRANCES M. HARDER.

This entire column will be reserved next week for communications from those who do not agree with our editorial, "Gullible Greeks."

Women's Gym Classes To Give Demonstration

The annual demonstration of the work done in the Women's department of physical education is scheduled for Saturday at 2:30 o'clock in the gymnasium. Since the space for visitors is limited, the invitation to be present is extended only to members of the women's college, and to the faculty and their friends.

The tentative program includes:

1. Wand drill; 2. Folk dancing; Stick dance, Raggedy Anne; 3. Tactics, Indian Clubs and games; 4. Stunts; 5. Folk dancing; Gathering Peascods, Mage on a Cree, In the Shadows, Schottische; Intermission, elementary apparatus; 6. Swedish gymnastics; 7. Dumbbell drill; 8. Interpretative dancing; Greek exercises, Lullaby, Blowing Bubbles, In the Waves; 9. Volley ball game, Freshmen versus Sophomores. The pupils of the methods class will assist.

Change Is Made In Bread Loaf Facutly

Doctor Odell Shepard, who was to have been a member of the staff at Bread Loaf this summer, has been forced to resign on account of ill health. It has been announced that to take his place, Miss Jane Swenarton has been secured. She will give courses in Shakespeare and the Informal Essay. Miss Swenarton is a graduate of Smith College, with the degree of A. M. from Columbia, and a former student at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. She was for six years Head of the English Department and Director of Dramatics at Skidmore College, and has also served a year as Associate Professor of Spoken English and Dramatics at Converse College, and four years in the State Normal School in Edinboro, Pa. This year Miss Swenarton has been doing special graduate work at Columbia and The School of the Theatre and acting as Play Reader to Mr. Winthrop Ames, producer.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Rates For Hepburn Rooms To Be Raised Next Year

By a recent action of the College Trustees the rates at Hepburn Hall will be raised for the coming year on the following scale:

$120.00 rooms to $150.00.
$100.00 rooms to $120.00.
$90.00 rooms to $100.00.
$80.00 rooms to $90.00.
$72. 00 rooms to $80.00.

With the grade of service which has been furnished it has been found practically impossible at the present rates to make adequate provision for covering depreciation on the building.

In considering the matter an investigation was made of the rates charged for similar accommodations in other institutions, and it was found that the rates which have been decided upon for Hepburn Hall for the coming year were far below the charges for similar service in other institutions.

ALUMNI NOTES

Two of the executive appointments made recently by Governor Billings are of especial interest to Middlebury people. Judge Frank L. Fish, a trustee of the college, was appointed fourth associate justice of the Supreme Court of the state of Vermont, filling a vacancy caused by the death of Justice Taylor. Judge Fish had served since 1912 on the bench of the Superior Court of the state and his appointment was looked upon with general favor all over the state. Webster E. Miller '17, was chosen a few days later for the post of secretary of civil and military affairs. He succeeds John C. Sherburne who fills the vacancy in the superior court, caused by the elevation of Judge Fish. Miller has been city grand juror in Montpelier since March, 1925, and is secretary of the Montpelier Chamber of Commerce.

Rev. George M. Rowland '83, who has been a missionary in Japan for some time writes that his address has been simplified to the following: 645 Tokoshi, Hiratsuka, Tokyo.

A son, Hjalmar St. Pierre, was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. Gustaf Sundin of Jamestown, N. Y., April 2, 1926. Mrs. Sundin was formerly Alice G. St. Pierre '22.

Middlebury College alumni living in Bridgeport, Connecticut, gathered for a social reunion March 25, dining at the University Club. Classes from 1893 to 1926 were represented. Professor Myron R. Sanford led the group in recalling college days and all present contributed student anecdotes. Letters of greeting were read from members of the college faculty. A state-wide reunion of Middlebury alumni is being planned for the latter part of May.

Boston Alumni To Hold Reunion

Middlebury Alumni in Boston and vicinity are to hold their annual dinner and reunion at the Hotel Vendome on May 22. Dr. W. H. VanAllen '90 will be toastmaster and among the guests of honor will be Prof. and Mrs. Charles Baker Wright. President Paul D. Moody is expected to be among the speakers. Further announcements will be made at a later date.

Oscar W. Cooley, Henry Happ, John J. Leary, Melvin W. Livingston and J. Arnold Shaw of the class of 1925 and Maynard J. Axtel '24 were visitors in Middlebury over the past week-end.

CAMPUS BOARD VOTES APPROVAL OF CHANGE

Journalistic Society And Ex-Editors Endorse Plan As Progressive

The move to reorganize the CAMPUS board, giving full editorial responsibility to the Editor-in-Chief and creating the position of Managing Editor, made its first definite step last Saturday when the CAMPUS board unanimously approved the amendments which incorporate the change. Both men and women expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of it. The amendments have been referred to the Student Council and Student Government. Favorable action by both bodies is necessary before the new plan can be put into effect. It is hoped that it will be possible to elect the staff on the new basis when the annual elections are held the latter part of next week.

That the plan meets with favor among those who are well acquainted with the situation is shown by the fact that it has been endorsed by the past two editors of the CAMPUS and by Phi Pi Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity.

At a recent meeting of the journalists the following action was taken: "Moved, seconded and unanimously passed the Phi Pi Epsilon go on record as heartily favoring the proposed change in the constitution of the Middlebury CAMPUS and that the secretary be instructed to prepare and have inserted in the next issue of the paper such notice of commendation."

Oscar W. Cooley '25, Editor-in-Chief during the year 1923-24 made the following statement:

"The editor of the CAMPUS has always been overworked. The changes contemplated at present will divide the work formerly done by one man between two, and will consequently give the editorial writer ample time, freedom from worry, and independence. The result should be better editorials and stimulation of student opinion, which is apparently dormant at present."

J. Audrey Clark, '26, who was editor for 1924-25, expressed his views on the matter as follows:

"I am heartily in favor of the proposed change in the CAMPUS Board. As one who has been through the mill I know only too well the enormous responsibility placed on the shoulders of the editor under the present system. He has the thankless task of being held to account for the material each week, the mechanical discrepancies in typography, tone and effect of the editoral column, no matter whether or not he is personally responsible for the articles appearing there. In other words he is the CAMPUS, and his work begins rather than ends when he assumes office. The new system will tend to make the position what it is supposed to be—one of the highest undergraduate offices which can be gained—and will give the editor a chance to wield a more thoughtful and intellectual influence over the student body."

Maine Debaters Win By Split Decision

The debating team lost its last regular debate of the season when it met the University of Maine March 25 at Orono. The judges rendered a two to one decision in favor of the opponents. Middlebury was upholding the affirmative of government ownership of the coal mines and was represented on the platform by Hawthorne, '26, Hade, '26 and Reighard, '27. It is possible that a debate will be arranged with St. Michael's some time this month in order that some of the underclassmen on the squad may gain some experience for next year.

New Staff To Be Elected Soon

The election of the CAMPUS staff for the year 1926-27 will be held Thursday, April 22 and the new staff will take over the publication of the paper with the issue of Wednesday, May 5. The annual CAMPUS banquet will probably be held April 28.

BABOON'S JOKES TO BE BROADCAST AFAR

Editor Signs Contract Which Permits College Joker and Newspaper Syndicate to Reproduce Material

Lloyd C. Harris, '27, editor of the Blue Baboon, this week signed a contract with George D. Swartz, producer of The College Joker, giving him exclusive rights to reproduce material from the Blue Baboon in motion pictures. The College Joker is a weekly motion picture release made up of material used from the leading college comic publications of the country and a number of jokes from the Baboon have appeared on the screen during the past few months . Under a new arrangement with College Humor and the Cosmos Newspaper Syndicate, a subsidiary of the Hearst Publications, the jokes in the Blue Baboon will appear in a number of the leading newspapers of the country from now on as a large number of papers have subscribed to this service of the Cosmos Syndicate.

The next issue of the Blue Baboon which will be the Spring Number, will appear during the first week in May. In this issue the editorial pages will be varied from the usual custom and will assume a critical, rather than a humorous attitude, towards college life with a certain amount of stimulus injected into the criticism. This will be the last issue of the present board.

They are as follows: Address by the President, Alfred Knowles; Class History, James S. Jackson; Class Oration, J. Audrey Clark; Class Poem, Margaret L. Doty; Class Prophecy, Calvin B. Farnsworth and Katherine Abel; Class Essay, Frances M. Harder; Class Will, James C. McLeod, and Tree Planting, J. Stuart Gruggel.

Phi Pi Epsilon Makes Plans For More Activity

Phi Pi Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity, has started a movement to make itself of more importance and prestige on the campus and to be a more active factor in the publication interests at Middlebury. A committee headed by Lloyd C. Harris, '26, editor of the Blue Baboon, James S. Jackson, '26, editor of the CAMPUS, and Howard Cutler, '27, editor of the Kaleidoscope has been appointed to draw up a revised constitution which will go into effect at once. The basis of election will be changed this spring with the aim of making this body smaller and more truly representative of those in charge of the various publications here.

A squad of about twenty-five freshman men are working out in preparation for the Parker Prize Debate. Although the exact date for the forensic contest to determine the best speakers in the class has not been set it will probably follow close after Junior Week. The child labor question is the one on which the debaters are now working. The keen interest which the freshmen are displaying points to a close competition for places on the teams.

COMMUNICATION

Alumnus Heartily Endorses Idea Of Having Systematic Plan For Class Reunions

To the Editor of The Campus:

Among the items of your paper under the issue of March 24th, 1926, headed Communication, I desire at this time to wholly second the ideas of Wade '22, regarding the Class Reunion proposition.

To my knowledge and belief it would mean more to the Alumni as well as the college than anything that could take place, after once put on a working basis.

It would without a doubt keep the various members of a class in touch with each other, as well as closer in touch with college matters and affairs. They would plan and make efforts to be present at these reunions because they would realize that the other members of the class were doing the same and that when they arrived they would expect to find more than a small per cent of the class present.

Myself for instance, had we had a well founded system of class reunions I haven't a doubt but what I would have made far more effort to be present at the various commencements since my graduation than I have. As the matter stands I really feel ashamed of the fact that I have not been present at Commencement more than I have.

Other colleges have worked out reunions and they have been worked out successfully. Why can't we? Get together and renew old acquaintances.

DR. THOMAS WARNS YOUTH OF DANGERS

Former Middlebury President, Speaking In Chapel Pulpit, Makes Strong Plea For Moral Strength

The speaker at Vespers Sunday was President John M. Thomas of Rutgers College, former President of Middlebury. He used as his text the story of Absalom taken from the Book of Solomon. His sermon treated of the dangers confronting the youth of today and some of the factors of safety that would offset them.

The special perils to beware of are the vices in our passions and temperaments, lack of earnestness which is illustrated by the class of men called "clingers", and cynicism, a very common peril of college life.

President Thomas stressed certain factors of safety which can combat these perils. They are a keen, discerning mind, good taste and culture, endurance of hardship and courage. The basis of every other protection is piety and fear of God.

In closing Dr. Thomas challeneged the youth of Middlebury college to uphold the moral standards and ideals of humanity, if not because of personal pride or from loyalty to their Alma Mater, then because of their desire to prove worthy of the expectations of their fathers.

Concert Tickets On Sale Friday

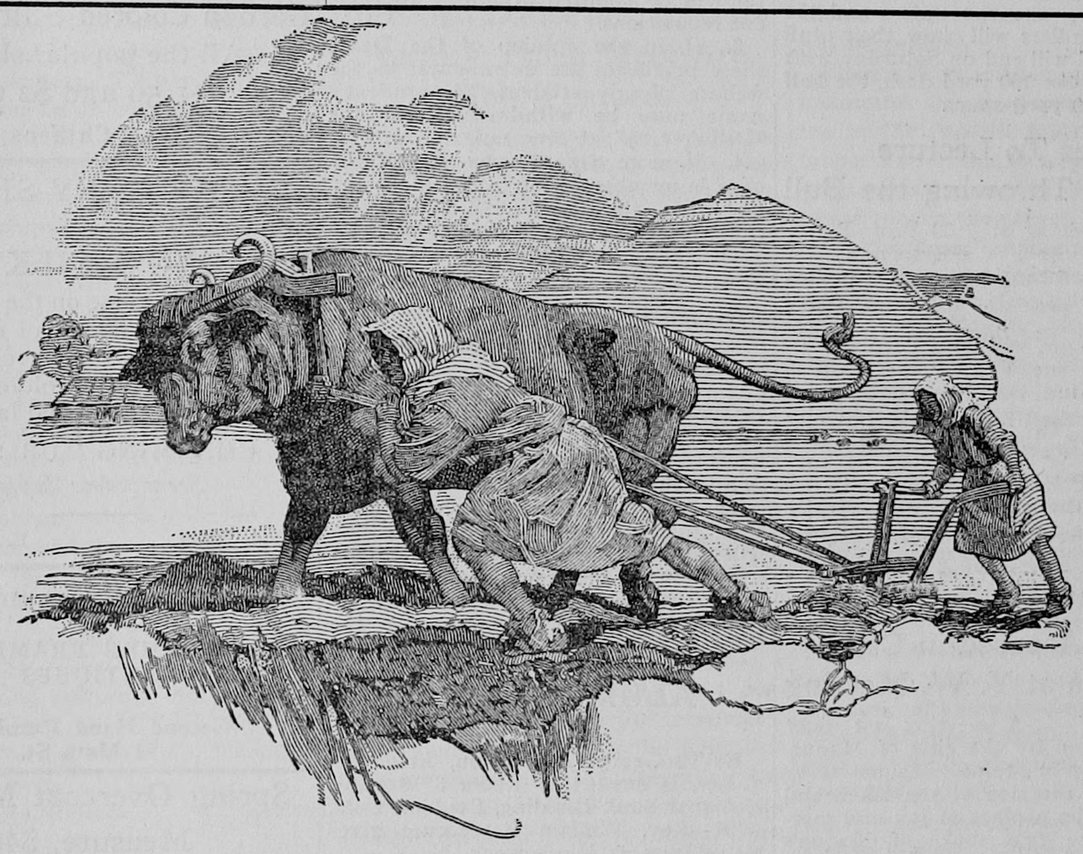
SWEATERS AWARDED TO HOCKEY PLAYERS

Middlebury's Strongest Ice Team Given Insignia; Four To Return

Hockey sweaters were awarded to seven players and the manager of the state championship team of the past season, after chapel Friday morning. The presentation was made by Professor Phelps N. Swett of the Athletic Council. An exception was made to the usual rule of giving only letters to members of a minor sport team because of the excellent record made during the past season. The team had five victories to its credit including two over the University of Vermont and lost only three games, those to Hamilton, Amherst and the Army.

Prospects for another strong team next year are unusually bright. Of those who received letters, only three will be graduated, Captain McLaughlin, Twichell and Conley. Four men three of whom are freshmen, will return as a nucleus of what should be Middlebury's strongest hockey team. Besides these four there will be Whittemore and Hill, both of whom were playing fine games the first of the season but who were ineligible after mid-years on account of marks.

The following were awarded letters: Captain William J. McLaughlin '26, Captain-elect Carlton H. Simmons, '23, Edward S. Twichell, John T. Conley '26, Stillman Kelley '29, Folke Gruggel '29, Frederick G. Bossert '29, and Manager Lester W. Schaefer '26.



The Ox Woman

On an East Indian farm, where the crop is tea, a wooden plow turns up the rich black soil. A woman drives, another woman pulls—and a black ox pulls beside her.

Six hours under a tropical sun, a bowl of cold rice—and six hours more. Then the woman goes to her bed of rushes, and the beast to his mud stall. Tomorrow will be the same.

The American home has many conveniences. But many American women often work as hard as their Oriental sisters. They toil at the washtub, they carry water, they churn by hand—all tasks which electricity can do for them at small cost, in half the time.

The labor-saving possibilities of electricity are constantly becoming more widely recognized. And the social significance of the release of the American woman from physical drudgery, through the increasing use of electricity in and about the home, will appeal instantly to every college man and woman.

The electric light, the electric iron, the vacuum cleaner—the use of electricity on the farm for pumping water, for milking, and for the cream separator—are helping to make life happier. General Electric research and engineering have aided in making these conveniences possible.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-18.

TRYOUTS FOR FIRST MEET START FRIDAY

Prospects For Track Seem Better; Large Squad Working

Middlebury's track prospects are beginning to brighten and the squad is rounding into shape for the first meet which is only a few weeks off. A squad of 60 men reported to Coach Brown after the spring recess, a large number of whom had stayed here during the vacation to train for the spring meets, while others kept in shape at home.

Outdoor workouts are being held every day now and the men are showing a vast improvement over the form displayed in the pre-vacation sessions. However, the team as yet, does not compare with those of other years and a great deal will have to be done to develop a squad that can hold up Middlebury's prestige on the cinder concourse.

The trials for the Mass. Aggie meet will start Friday of this week and continue during the coming week. Friday the preliminaries and semi-final heats will be held in the 100 yard dash together with the trials for the one mile run and the broad jump. Monday preliminaries and semi-finals in the 220 yard dash will be held and also the trials for the high jump and discus throw. The 440 yard run, the shot put, pole vault and javelin throw will be held next Wednesday. A week from Friday the 120 yard hurdlers, the hammer throwers, the two milers and the 220 yard hurdlers will show their stuff and the trial will end on Saturday with the finals in the 100 yard dash, the half mile and 220 yard spurt.

Rodriguez To Lecture On Throwing the Bull

Friday evening at 7:30 Prof. Rodriguez of the Spanish Department will give an illustrated lecture on throwing the bull which should prove of universal interest to the student body. However the lecture will be a deep discussion on the meaning of the Spanish bull fights and the great enthusiasm that this sport arouses in the inhabitants of the Iberian penisula. His lecture will be supplemented by several colored lantern slides that will portray to the audience very vividly just how the Spaniard tosses the toro to a packed house. All members of the Spanish Club and other students are invited to attend.

Interest Aroused in Camp Maqua at Y. W. Meeting

The Y. W. C. A. meeting last night was conducted by the girls of Maqua, a Y. W. camp in Maine. Maqua means "birches by the side of the lake" and it seems to be a place of joy and merriment. The girls spoke of Maqua's activities, ideals and purposes, told stories of camp life and sang Maqua songs. The meeting was informal and it succeeded in accomplishing its purpose—that of arousing interest in Moqua.

Three interesting one-act plays were presented by members of the faculty of the French department at the last meeting of the Cercle Francais, held in the Chateau before vacation.

Unlimited Cuts For Those On Deans' List

Dean's List and accordingly those whose records had been most consistently good would have been given the privilege.

According to the restrictions made, a student can not cut a test which has been preannounced. Being allowed to cut the class, it is understood, will not allow a student to avoid handing in assigned written work. Work is due when assigned whether a cut is taken or not.

The official statement given out by the Dean's office in regard to the matter is as follows:

A maximum of 20 per cent. of the members of the junior and senior classes who have attained during any semester an average of 85 per cent in all their courses and who have had no grade below 80 per cent, may, for the next succeeding semester, be placed on an approved list upon making application to and receiving the approval of their Dean. The approved lists will be designated as the "Dean's List."

Students enrolled on the "Dean's Lists" will be given the same unlimited cut privileges in their class appointments as are at present extended to Graduate students, with certain restrictions as follows:

1. These privileges shall not apply to daily or Sunday chapel, or to preannounced tests.
2. These privileges shall not be applicable directly before or after a college recess. If so used, the students' name will immediately be withdrawn from the "Dean's List" and all cuts taken since the beginning of the semester will be counted according to present regulations.
3. If, in the opinion of the Dean, these privileges are detrimental to the welfare of any student, the student's name may be withdrawn from the "Dean's List" at any time.
4. If more than 20 per cent of the eligible members of any class make applications, the Deans will place upon the "Deans' Lists" the names of those whose records have been most consistently good.

Tennis Team at Work In Handball Courts

Late Arrival of Spring Forces Racquet Wielders To Stay Indoors; First Match April 30

In preparation for the first match, which is to be played April 30 against St. Stephen's, the tennis squad is working out daily in the handball courts in the gymnasium. Since Captain Hickcox has three letter men, Twichell, Wolfskehl and Hindes, it is very probable that the spring campaign will be successfull.

For a time the men were working out individually in the gym, but an intensive practise under the direction of Professor Adams was launched Saturday which will provide for regular indoor training until the outdoor courts can be put into shape. The courts still have a good bit of frost in them but if the weather man is the least bit favorable in the future they ought to be ready in two weeks.

Present Cup to Neutrals

The Sages silver loving cup for the interfraternity basketball championship was officially presented to the Neutrals in chapel this morning. Farnsworth '26 made the presentation for the Sages and Marchukaitis '28 received the cup for the Neutrals. Delta Kappa Epsilon and the Neutrals each have one leg on the cup which must be won three times for permanent possession.

Oklahoma Comic To Use Blue Baboon Material

That the Blue Baboon is holding its place among the college humorous publications is clearly evidenced by the fact that the Whirlwind, the comic of the University of Oklahoma, is to use two pages of material from the Baboon in its annual Exchange Number which is to appear in May. This speaks very highly for the type of material that has appeared in the Baboon this year as the Whirlwind is collecting both art and literary content from all the college comics of the country. It is unusual for a small college comic to be given this honor. The Whirlwind will reprint a page of art material and another of literary material in their forthcoming issue.
